

Relativistic Flying Mirror for Reaching High Quantum Nonlinearity Parameter

T M JEONG<sup>1</sup>, S V BULANOV<sup>1</sup>, P VALENTA<sup>1</sup>, AND P HADJISOLOMOU<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup>ELI Beamlines Facility, Extreme Light Infrastructure ERIC, Dolni Brezany, Czech Republic
Contact Email: taemoon.jeong@eli-beams.eu

The relativistic flying mirror is proposed to intensify the focused laser intensity using the double Doppler shift and a geometrical factor related to the ratio between the input beam size and the wavelength. We consider the quantum nonlinearity parameter with the intensified field strength for the strong-field quantum electrodynamics.